 Jane Warner m George Middlemore of Hazelwell, Worcs c1560-1637 QV

Henry Warner by his will devised all his property in Whittington, Uttoxeter, Marchington, Lichfield and Wenesburye and goods and chattels " to the value of £500" to his wife Isabel, with remainder to their children, Thomas, Simon, Edmond and Jane. In 1602 Isabel Warner settled Woodford Hall, Uttoxeter, upon her son Edmond's marriage, who, however, as well as his brothers Thomas and Simon, died s.p. in the lifetime of Isabel, who herself died about 1605, whereby the Warner property descended to the said Jane Middlemore (who was deceased 6 September, 1609) and her two children. In 1617, George Middlemore sued Mathew Wightwick, as executor of Isabel, for an account and in 1619 his son George also sued Mathew Wightwick alleging that upon the death of his grandmother, Isabel Warner, about 1612, he ought, in right of his mother, to have become possessed of the Warner estates, but that Mathew and his son William had possessed themselves of the said estate by fraud and that the former pretended to be executor of Isabel's will. In 1599 he filed his bill against Gilbert Gardner, of London, goldsmith, in respect of a dispute about a bond for £60 which he in 1597, with Thomas Warner (presumably his brother-in-law), late of Whittington, gent., had given to Gardner to secure £32.
